In the heart of Kopienica cuty, young eco-warriors gather for a transformative experience – the Air Protection workshop. Designed to educate and inspire, this initiative aims to instill a deep understanding of environmental issues, particularly air and water pollution, in the minds of our youngest citizens. The workshop kicks off with an eye-opening introduction, where participants are immersed in the world of air quality, exploring its impact on health and the environment. Armed with newfound knowledge, they embark on a series of educational games and challenges, turning learning into a thrilling adventure. From brainstorming solutions to crafting artistic expressions of their insights, students unleash their creativity in hands-on workshops. They design posters, create artworks, and engage in lively discussions, all aimed at fostering a sense of responsibility towards our planet. As the day unfolds, students are treated to an educational film, offering a poignant glimpse into the consequences of air pollution. This cinematic journey serves as a powerful catalyst for reflection and action, motivating students to become champions of change in their communities. The workshop culminates in a celebration of learning and empowerment. Armed with certificates of participation, students emerge as ambassadors of environmental stewardship, equipped with the knowledge and motivation to drive positive change.
