The initiative is an official EU Green Week Partner Event.

Can a shared cycling trip also become a lesson in history, ecology and responsible economic choices? During the 2nd Family Cycling Rally Around the Municipality of Woźniki "Under the Blue Sky", participants will discover that active time outdoors can combine recreation with environmental education and discussions about sustainable local development.

The cycling rally is intended for families, groups of friends, as well as residents and visitors of the Municipality of Woźniki. The event has a recreational and community-building character, and its route will lead through picturesque areas of the municipality, allowing participants to explore the region's natural and tourist attractions.

This year's edition will take place on the National Day of the Silesian Uprisings, therefore the rally will also refer to the history of the region. Along the route, participants will learn about places connected with the Silesian Uprisings, including the Palace in Czarny Las. In this way, the event will combine historical education with the discovery of local cultural and natural heritage.

During the rally, participants will also receive informational materials about air quality and actions aimed at improving it. The event highlights that choosing a bicycle as a means of transport is one of the simplest ways to reduce emissions and support a more environmentally friendly economy based on low-emission mobility.

In this context, the bicycle becomes a symbol of everyday choices that influence the functioning of the modern economy. The development of cycling infrastructure, active tourism and low-emission transport supports the local economy, improves the quality of life of residents and reduces the environmental impact of transport.

A family eco-picnic will be organised at the start and finish area, where participants will be able to visit educational and information stands. Among the exhibitors will be representatives of the State Forests, the Beekeepers' Association in Woźniki, and institutions providing information about programmes supporting improvements in building energy efficiency, such as the "Clean Air" programme.

The 2nd Family Cycling Rally Around the Municipality of Woźniki shows that the development of an environmentally friendly economy can begin with local initiatives – discovering nature together, choosing sustainable forms of transport and building awareness among residents about air quality and climate protection.

The event is organised as part of the project "Silesia. Blue Sky Restored".
