The initiative is an official EU Green Week Partner Event.

What is the best way to begin a week dedicated to investing in nature? In Łaziska Górne, the answer is simple: by discovering nature together and taking action. The outdoor game “Change Trackers” will officially launch the Silesian Green Week, inviting residents to join a unique educational adventure.

The event will take place at the “Żabka” Recreation and Sports Centre, which will transform into a space filled with environmental challenges and nature-inspired puzzles. Participants – children, young people and adults – will take on the role of young explorers investigating changes occurring in the natural environment.

Teams will follow a specially prepared route where they will complete tasks related to key elements of nature and climate: water, energy, plants, animals and weather phenomena. Each station of the game will help participants understand how climate change affects our surroundings and what actions can help protect nature.

The activities will be interactive and adapted to different age groups. Participants will solve puzzles, conduct simple nature observations and make decisions related to environmental protection. Through these challenges they will discover that investing in nature is not only about large infrastructure projects but also about knowledge, responsible choices and everyday actions by local communities.

The game has a family and intergenerational character, encouraging teamwork and shared discovery. Solving challenges together builds environmental awareness and demonstrates that caring for nature can be an engaging and inspiring adventure.

Launching the Silesian Green Week with such an event carries symbolic meaning. It shows that investing in nature begins with understanding natural processes, recognising the effects of climate change and engaging local communities in environmental action.

The outdoor game “Change Trackers” will therefore be not only an exciting activity but also the first step in a week full of events demonstrating how communities can work together to build a greener and more climate-resilient future.

The event is organised as part of the project “Silesia. Blue Sky Restored”.
